Preface

The II. International Congress of Young Academics of the Turkic World brings together scholars from diverse disciplines to share their latest research findings, exchange innovative ideas, and foster academic collaboration across the Turkic world. This event reflects the growing importance of interdisciplinary and intercultural dialogue in addressing contemporary global and regional challenges. By providing a platform for young researchers, the congress aims not only to contribute to the advancement of knowledge but also to strengthen academic networks that transcend national boundaries.

This year's congress takes place at a time of dynamic changes in both academia and society. Young academics, representing the future of scientific inquiry, are increasingly tasked with generating new perspectives on issues ranging from cultural heritage and language to diplomacy, law, technology, and sustainability. Their work highlights the richness of the Turkic intellectual tradition while also engaging with universal questions of human development. In this sense, the congress embodies both continuity and innovation: it draws upon deep-rooted historical and cultural ties while simultaneously embracing modern scientific methods and global academic standards.

The proceedings of this congress include contributions from a wide range of fields, reflecting the multidisciplinary spirit of the event. From studies in international relations and energy diplomacy to analyses of language, education, and cultural interaction, the papers demonstrate the intellectual vitality of the young generation of Turkic scholars. Together, they illustrate the potential of academic cooperation in promoting mutual understanding, advancing scientific knowledge, and contributing to the integration of the Turkic world into the broader international scholarly community.

We express our sincere gratitude to all contributing authors for their valuable work, as well as to the organizing and scientific committees whose dedication and expertise made this congress possible. Special thanks are also due to the institutions and sponsors that supported the realization of this event. It is our hope that the discussions and findings presented here will inspire further research, strengthen collaboration, and contribute to the shared future of the Turkic world.
